

Remember me?

*I was the first birthday gift that you asked for and actually got.
We'd get away and explore new places, limited only by imagination and sunlight.
All the other kids wished they were you: lucky, fast, and free.
What do kids wish for now?*